

VIDEOS JEFFREY EPSTEIN

How a former French culture minister is linked to Epstein

VIDEO | Jack Lang, the former president of the Arab World Institute, appeared hundreds of times in the Epstein files.

By Alexis Tomas, Arthur Navet and Sinead McCausland
Published on February 17, 2026, at 6:00 pm (Paris)

Viewing this content may result in the use of cookies by the third-party operator hosting it. Because of the choices you have made regarding the use of cookies, we have blocked the display of this content. If you wish to access it, you must accept the "Third-party content" category of cookies by clicking on the button below.

Accept to view content

Former culture minister and former president of the Arab World Institute Jack Lang is under investigation by France's National Financial Prosecutor's Office over his links to convicted sex offender Jeffrey Epstein, who died in prison in 2019. Lang's daughter, Caroline Lang, is also under investigation. They are suspected of "aggravated tax fraud laundering," particularly in connection with an offshore company based in the Virgin Islands that Epstein set up in 2016 in association with Caroline Lang, and the sale of a riad in Morocco.

Read more How the Epstein scandal brought down Jack Lang

In this video, we go beyond the financial details of Jack Lang's ties to Epstein, revealing a longstanding friendly relationship between the former financier and convicted sex offender and the Lang family. Jack Lang said that he took responsibility for his ties to Epstein "at a time when nothing suggested that Jeffrey Epstein could be at the heart of a criminal network." He said in a statement sent to Agence France-Presse on February 2: "Had I known, I would have immediately cut off all contact with him."

Read more Diplomat Anne-Claire Legendre succeeds Jack Lang at Arab World Institute

Alexis Tromas, Arthur Navet and Sinead McCausland

Translation of an original article published in French on lemonde.fr; the publisher may only be liable for the French version.